

print-function

May 19, 2026

```
[ ]: Print_fuction: It is used to print answers.
```

```
[1]: a = 10
b = 20
a b
```

```
[1]: 20
```

```
[2]: a = 10
b = 20
print(a) print(b)
```

```
10
20
```

```
[ ]: Printing result with string
```

```
[4]: num1 = 20
num2 = 30
add = num1 + num2
print('The addition of',num1,'and',num2, 'is=',add)
```

```
The addition of 20 and 30 is= 50
```

```
[5]: name = 'Python'
age = 20
city = 'Hyd'
print('My name is',name, 'and i am', age, 'yeras old from', city)
```

```
My name is Python and i am 20 yeras old from Hyd
```

```
[ ]: #Print format method
```

```
[6]: name = 'Python'
age = 20
city = 'Hyd'
```

```
print('My name is {} and i am {} years old from {}'.format(name,age,city))
```

My name is Python and i am 20 years old from Hyd

```
[7]: num1 = 20
      num2 = 20
      add = num1 + num2
      print('The addition {} and {} is = {}'.format(num1,num2,add))
```

The addition 20 and 20 is = 40

```
[ ]: More short format method using (f string method)
```

```
[8]: num1 = 20
      num2 = 20
      add = num1 + num2
      print(f'The addition of {num1} and {num2} is = {add}')
```

The addition of 20 and 20 is = 40

```
[9]: num1=100
      num2=25
      num3=333
      avg=round((num1+num2+num3)/3,2)
      print(f'The avg of {num1},{num2} and {num3} is = {avg}')
```

The avg of 100,25 and 333 is = 152.67

```
[ ]: End Statement: we will use end statement that join line from end of one string to starting of other string
```

```
[10]: print('Hello Python', end= ' ')
       print('Welcome to the python progrmme')
```

Hello Python Welcome to the python progrmme

```
[ ]: # Seprator: We use (, . * - ' ', or any other sign) seprator to print only one ↪statement.
      # Inside one print statement we have multiple values.
```

```
[11]: print('cat','hen','dog','cock','goat', sep= ' ')
```

cat hen dog cock goat

```
[12]: print('hello','hai','how are you',sep='--->')
```

hello--->hai--->how are you

```
[13]: print('hello', 'hai', 'how are you', sep=' * ')
```

hello * hai * how are you